Position context and key challenges
Sudan is undergoing a remarkable political transition and reforms. Following protests that started at the end of 2018/early 2019, the three-decade rule of Omar al-Bashir has come to an end in April 2019 and a transitional government was put in place which appointed a civilian Prime Minister in August 2019 with democratic elections to be scheduled to take place at the end of 2022 for the first time in nearly 30 years. The formalization of the peace agreement reached in Juba in August 2020 between the transitional government and the Sudan Revolutionary Front (SRF) remains a key step forward in the implementation of tasks in the transitional period. The subsequent signature of the peace agreement on 3 October 2020 was broadly welcomed and it is seen as creating momentum towards stability in the country and renewed international engagement in Sudan.
